

The Final Week for the Critically Acclaimed

946: The Amazing Story of Adolphus Tips

At The Wallis

from Tuesday, February 28 through Sunday, March 5 Only

(Beverly Hills, CA February 27) Kneehigh Theatre's rollicking 946: The Amazing Story of Adolphus Tips wraps its critically hailed run at The Wallis on Sunday March 5, prior to its New York premiere at St. Anne's Warehouse on March 16. Directed by Emma Rice, Kneehigh brings its full arsenal of live music, puppetry, dance and visual hijinks to this new adaptation of the original novel by Michael Morpurgo (War Horse). 946 is the true story of British townfolk and the African American GIs sent to rehearse the 1944 Normandy invasion on their English shore. Seen through the eyes of a 12-year-old girl and her beloved cat Tips, 946 overturns everything we thought we knew about the D-Day landings in this tender tale of love and war.

"A profoundly moving celebration of love and hope!" – The Times

"What a gorgeous, joyous, meaningful piece of theater Kneehigh has devised. An amazing story gets an amazing telling at The Wallis!" – Los Angeles Daily News

"In true Kneehigh fashion, the show aims to delight with frolicsome theatricality. Director Emma Rice works her signature rough magic with the troupe." – Los Angeles Times

"The magic of what Kneehigh has put onstage is a delightfully sideways view and all sorts of visual delights." – TheaterMania

"Bursting with life and high spirits, mixing reality and fantasy, daring and bold, 946 captivates from start to finish." – Total Theater

"WOW! No one else makes theatrical magic quite like Kneehigh – as amazing as live theater gets." – StageSceneLA

"Full of creative and eccentric humor ... 946 thrives by virtue of its direction by Emma Rice." – LAExcites.com
